Being aware is the essence of a compassionate and altruistic soul.
The ability to look beyond the outward countenance . . .
to perceive the beauty of the inner dimensions . . .
to see with a clear, open-minded intelligence . . .

To be adept is to be aware.
The desire to excel makes it easier to accept the necessary sacrifices.
In turn,
You will not only exceed your goals, but you will become aware of the change manifested in yourself.

Miss Wards
we really missed you this year.
I must say I learned a lot when we had
you. You were a great teacher. Even though everybody gave you a bad time they really like ya.
Good Luck and take it easy
Deb Epps
"75"

There comes a time
when the ostensible becomes obvious.
That which was dim and blurred comes into focus with clarity . . .
thus, we are able to perceive.

A sense of awareness is developed in many diverse ways.
An integral part of awareness evolves from the deluge of information obtained from many aspects encountered in the living of life and also through utilization of the knowledge which others have acquired.

Awareness necessitates adaptability.
It is essential to be able to vacillate and unify thoughts in accordance with society.
In this way, one gains an insight toward self-satisfaction.

To look back in anger or forward in fear is as inexcusable as treating the present with apathy.
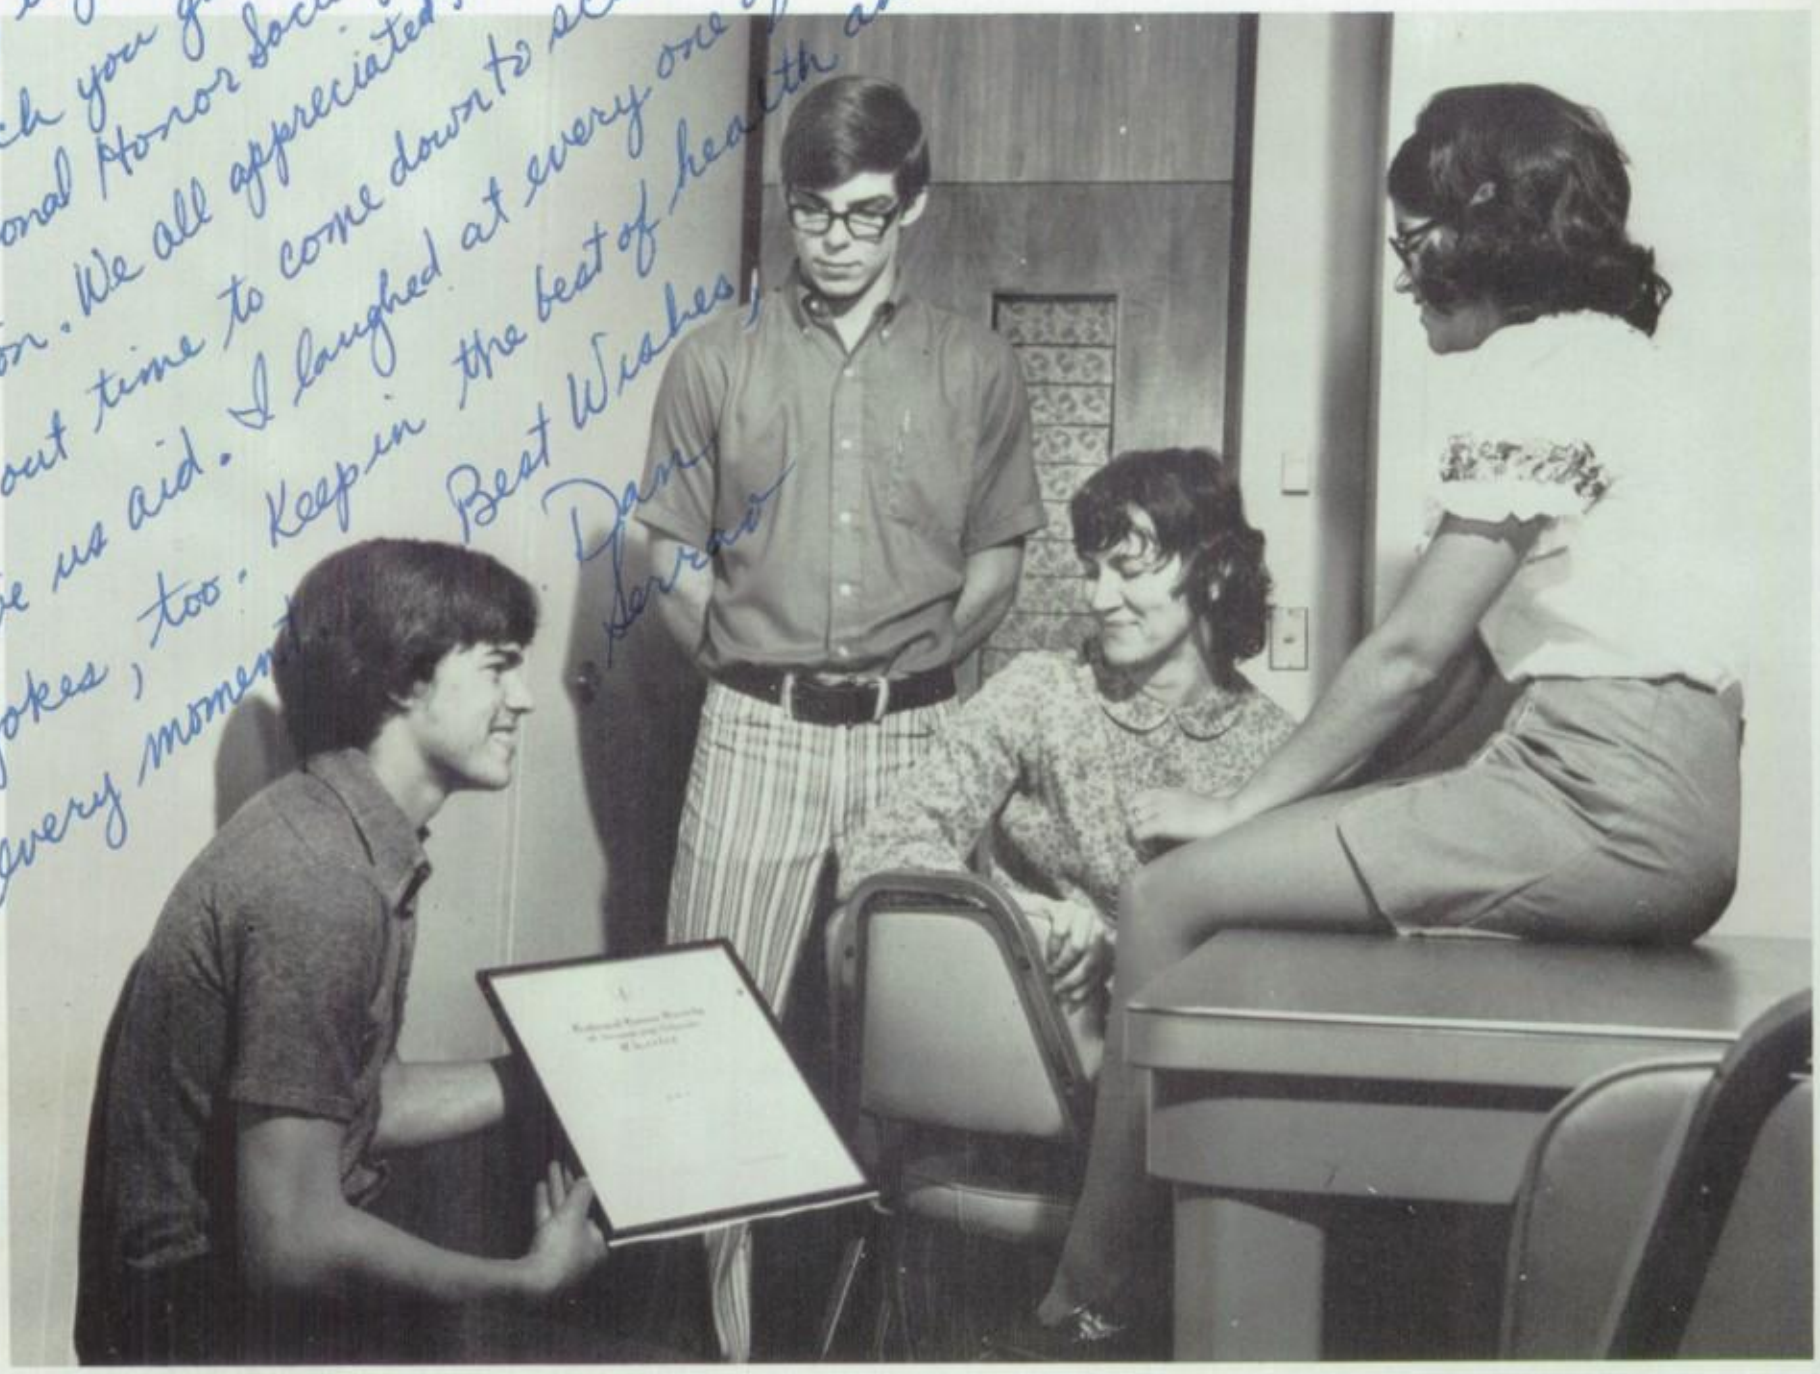
The answer lies in looking around in awareness.

Working with the group experiencing triumphs and defeats and seeking knowledge through personal endeavors lead to a richer understanding.

Seniors

Mrs. Ward,
I really enjoyed the speech you gave at the National Honor Society induction. We all appreciated that you took out time to come down to school and give us aid. I laughed at every one of your jokes, too. Keep in the best of health and enjoy every moment.
Best Wishes,
Danny Serrao



Danny Serrao reads the National Honor Society charter while members, Eileen DeAndrea and Jack Collison, along with advisor, Mrs. Burgin, listen.

National Honor Society

In 1967, a local chapter of the society was initiated at Franklin through the combined efforts of several interested teachers. The organization places emphasis on high standards of conduct in the areas of scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Selling of refreshments aids in fund raising.

Student Council

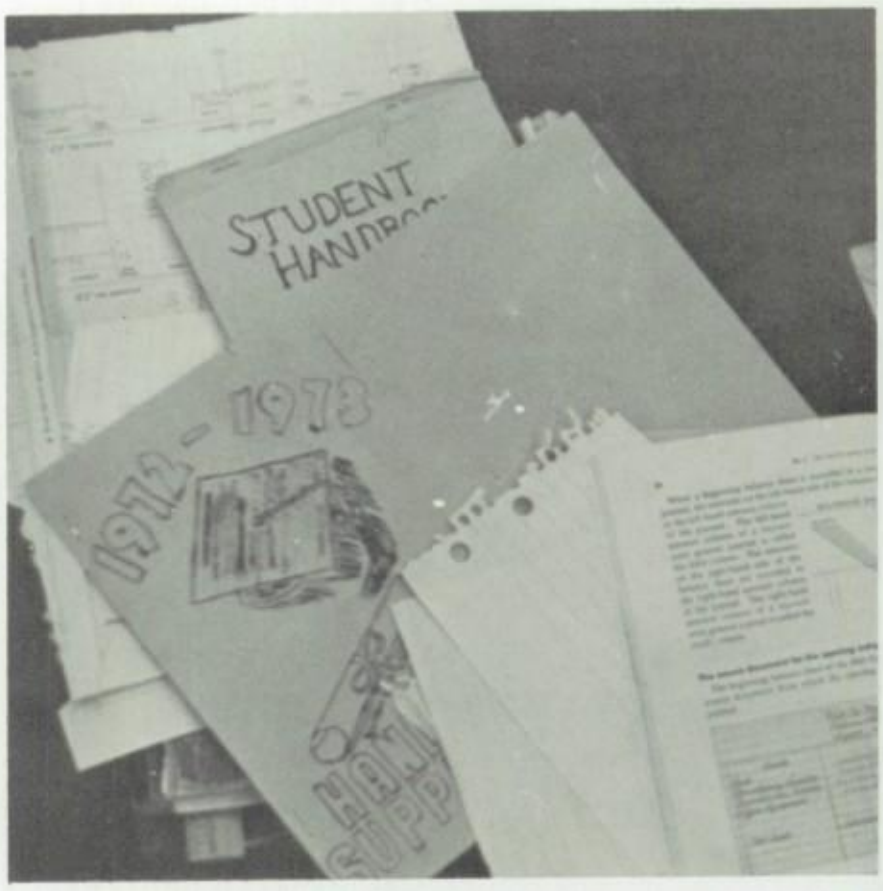
Mrs. Ward
I hope I did a satisfactory job in passing around your yearbook. Everyone was pleased that you thought enough of us to send it to school. (Even though its been repeated by everyone) I really miss not having you as a teacher anymore. You helped more than any other teacher and I greatly appreciate it. Thanks for the fine speech you gave at the National Honor Society induction. Everyone appreciated it. Best of wishes always. Love
Kim

Student Council serves as a representative group to vitalize student life. In time, the student council hopes to eliminate outdated regulations through self-management.

In October, they sponsored a successful Halloween party for the children and townspeople.

Guidance Committee

Headed by Mrs. Keiter, the Guidance Committee is a group of volunteers willing to work for the betterment of the school. The group is instrumental in the compiling of the student handbook.



Front Row: David Denny, Kathy Denny, Joyce Atcher, Linda Schmitt, Nancy Lohrman, and Mrs. Keiter.

T.T.C. Sorority

The T.T.C. Sorority is an organization which was founded more than half a century ago to give girls a chance to help the citizens of their area. Their activities during the year are for the benefit of members and townspeople alike.

Dear Mrs. Ward,
It really seems strange not to have you teaching. We all miss you, and hope that you are enjoying life now. I'm sure you won't forget our class!

P.S. Thanks for always writing nice things on my report card.

The Liberanni banquet marks the culmination of a year's hard work.

Mrs. Ward,
I missed seeing you this year in school as did many others. You were always a favorite with me and I greatly value your friendship. I hope we stay in touch through the years. Good luck to you always.
Love,
Terry

BUSINESS STAFF: Lorrie Serrao, Kathy Robinson, Joanna Howe, Deb Brandow, Vickie Van Dyke, Julie Bartlett, Donna Rutherford, and Anna Epps.

1973 Liberanni

The task of producing the school annual often seems insurmountable. The production is worked on year round. Through the summer months, members canvass the area for ads, and during the school year they go door-to-door with fund-raising sales items since it is necessary to raise several thousands of dollars to cover publishing costs.

Those working on the production staff are constantly confronted with picture taking, the writing of copy, the planning of page layouts, and the meeting of deadlines. For the entire staff and the advisor, the satisfaction of having created the book compensates for the sore feet, frayed nerves, and late hours.

Business Editor: Kathleen Robinson.

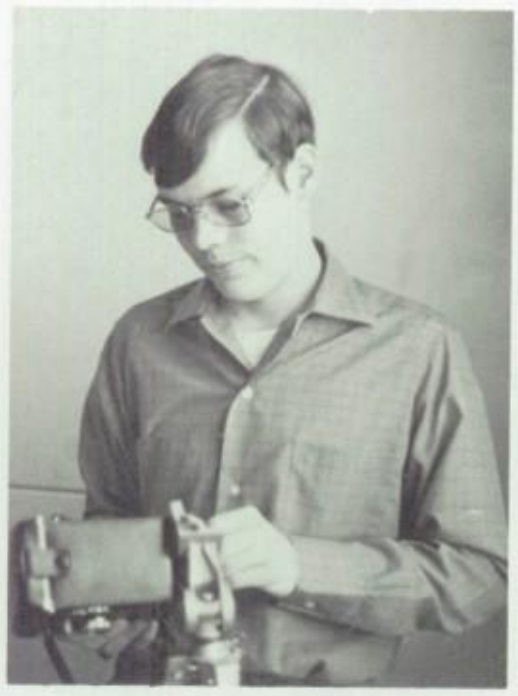
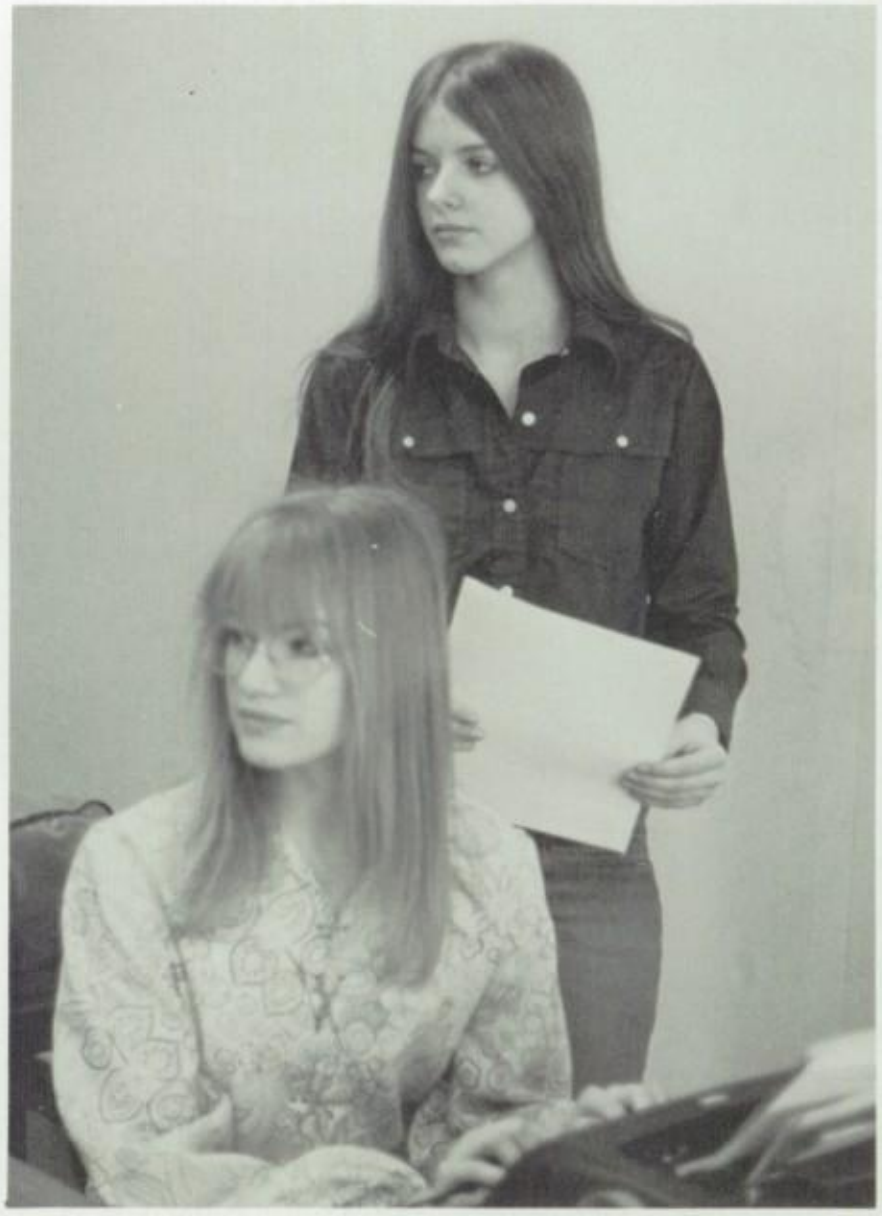
Photography Editor: Dave Giudice.



Photographer: Dale Downin.



Working on copy, Anna Epps and Karen Hughes wait while a co-worker checks on the spelling of a word.

Circulation Editor, Vickie Van Dyke, is pleased with successful yearbook sales.

D.L.I. Drama Club

Don Cornwell, president of Drama Club, prepares to hang the Society's charter.

Drama Club affords its participants an opportunity to express their creative talents.

An important aspect of Drama Club is the feeling of pride and accomplishment which accompanies the success of an industriously worked-for production and the enjoyment of having afforded the public a few pleasurable hours.

It has recently become affiliated with the International Thespian Society.

During the 1972-73 school year, members drafted a new constitution.

In the past few seasons, Drama Club productions have included: "Thurber Carnival." "Everybody Loves Opel," and "We Have Always Lived In the Castle."

Mrs Ward,
I hope you are enjoying life now! But I bet it feels funny not coming to school every day to teach us... as a good nice well behaved kids. It really seems funny around here without you! Hope your (boy)friend is doing well

Second Grade

. . . A time for expanding the knowledge which will serve as the framework in a long career of mind building activities and undertakings.

Parties can never cease to be enjoyable.

Math can stimulate the brain cells.

"Repeat the rules once more to be certain."

"How do I tell her that I really don't understand the new lesson?"

Photographers can be distracting.

Third Grade

Out with the boys for some Christmas Cheer.

New horizons begin to open with the acquisition of new writing and reading skills. Learning the multiplication tables is a brand new challenge in the constant struggle for knowledge.

Hanneke De Kat, a Rotary exchange student from Palerswolde in the Netherlands, graduated last year from Thorbecke College and plans to study nursing in Amsterdam upon her return home.

Among her hobbies are sailing and field hockey. During her stay in Franklin she enjoyed playing soccer, volleyball and basketball.

Hanneke is the youngest of three children; she has a brother, 26, and a sister, 24, who is married.

Hanneke has spent much time traveling throughout Europe and in addition to her native language she speaks three other languages fluently.

Hanneke found her stay in Franklin most rewarding and knows she will miss the active school life and her new-found friends.

Don is surprised to discover that his painting need be finished sooner than he had anticipated.

Transferring from Springfield, Massachusetts, Thomas Supply became a member of this year's graduating class.

Jon "Skip" Terry leaves for an afternoon session at vocational school.

Principal's Message

For the members of the class of 1973, now is a time of decision. Whether you are entering halls of higher learning or seeking employment, has probably been decided already. The immediate decision must involve the seriousness with which you approach the career of your choice, and to what extent this career will be tempered with consideration of cultural and social pursuits.

Hopefully your years at Franklin Central have equipped you to weigh these factors realistically and truthfully and to establish a balanced philosophy which you will maintain through life. As you leave Franklin Central the best wishes of all go with you.

The tacit feelings of those who can sense awareness in themselves is expressed in their alacrity to see life clearly.

Awareness is believed to be essential for the greater realization of a more complete life. Thus, an attempt has been made to depict an awareness as found in the many diverse components of student activity.

We wish to extend our thanks to the advisor, the staff, and all those who helped make this publication possible.

Sincerely,

Kay Edwards

Mrs. Ward,
It doesn't seem the same around here without you. I'll never forget your English classes as long as I live. It was quite an experience. Good luck to a very fine person who tried to teach me the correct English to use. I am sorry I failed you but you can't win them all.
